Ethical challenges for business in the future

The first Wittenberg Interdisciplinary Business Ethics Conference (WIBEC) aims to provide an exchange platform for young scholars working in the fields of economic, corporate, and leadership ethics. It is our goal to bring scholars together from all kinds of disciplines: philosophy, sociology, business studies, economics, psychology, jurisprudence, theology, history, and others. Scholars from other disciplines, e.g. art or the natural sciences are very welcome to apply if they wish to contribute to the broad topic of business ethics. All kinds of methodologies are welcome, including conceptual and normative works as well as qualitative and quantitative studies.

We invite you to apply for the conference by submitting their abstracts until May 19, 2019. Possible topics include but are not limited to the following categories:

- Corporate Social Responsibility / Corporate Citizenship
- Digitalization / Disruptive Technologies / Artificial Intelligence / Corporate Digital Responsibility
- Globalization / Human Rights / Supply Chain Management
- Equality / Diversity / Inclusion in the workplace
- Philanthropy / Social Businesses / Civil Society Organizations
- Ethical and responsible leadership / Corporate Governance
- Ethical Behavior / Ethical decision-making
- Innovation / Organization / New forms of work
- Climate Change / Pollution / Overfishing / Other environmental challenges
- Capitalism / GDP / Alternative forms of economic systems
- Others

Submit your abstract without any personal details in PDF or Word version to the conference email address: wibec@ethicsinbusiness.eu. Please include in your document a mention to the category or categories that best fit the topic of your abstract.
